

News Research Tool: Get instant insights from news articles

This tool is built using the Retrieval-Augmented Generation (RAG) framework, leveraging Google's Generative AI model Gemini-PRO. It fetches the content from a news article URL, processes it to create a search index, and generates accurate answers to user queries. This advanced approach ensures high-quality, contextually relevant responses for an efficient and effective user experience.

How It Works

Follow these simple steps to interact with the tool:

1. Enter Your API Keys: You'll need Google and News API keys for the tool to access Google's Generative AI models and fetch news articles. Obtain your API keys Google and News API.
2. Enter News URL or Search Query: Provide the URL of a news article to fetch and analyze its content or use a search query to find relevant news articles.
3. Ask a Question: After processing the article, ask any question related to the content for a precise answer.
